HOW SUSTAINABILITY IMPROVES BANKABILITY

A PRACTICAL GUIDE FOR BUSINESSES

Learning Level: Intermediate

PROGRAMME DESCRIPTION

Getting a loan today isn't just about showing profits and cash flow. Banks also want to know how ready your business is to manage sustainability — like how you handle environmental risks, your future transition plans, and how responsibly you run your operations.

This one-day course is designed for SMEs and commercial borrowers who want to improve their chances of securing green or transition finance. You'll learn what banks really look for, how to explain your sustainability efforts clearly, and how to prepare documents that support your funding application.

You'll also get a simple, practical introduction to Bank Negara Malaysia's Climate Change and Principle-based Taxonomy (CCPT) — a tool banks use to assess whether business activities align with climate goals. This course keeps it non-technical and focused on what businesses need to get ready.

Through real examples, easy-to-use templates, and role-play exercises, you'll walk away knowing how to improve your "bankability" — and speak the language that helps you move closer to funding approval.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

By the end of the programme, participants will be able to:

- Understand what banks look for when assessing green or sustainability-related business loans
- Identify how environmental efforts and responsible business practices can improve your funding eligibility
- Learn how to explain your sustainability efforts clearly, using simple language and examples
- Gain a basic understanding of Bank Negara Malaysia's CCPT and how it connects to your business activities
